9. RIGHTS OF PERSONS CONCERNED

As a Data Subject, you have various rights. These rights are not absolute and each of these rights is subject to certain conditions in accordance with the GDPR and applicable national laws.

- the right of access- you have the right to obtain from us confirmation as to whether or not your Personal Data is being processed by us, as well as certain other information (similar to that provided in this Privacy Policy) about how it is used. You also have the right to access your Personal Data, by requesting a copy of the Personal Data concerning you. This allows you to know and verify that we are using your information in accordance with data protection laws. We may refuse to provide information where doing so may reveal Personal Data about another person or adversely affect the rights of another person.

- the right of rectification- you can ask us to take steps to correct your Personal Data if it is inaccurate or incomplete (for example, if we have the wrong name or address).
- the right to erasure- also known as the “right to be forgotten”, this right allows you, in simple terms, to request the erasure or deletion of your Personal Data when, for example, there is no compelling reason for us to continue using them or their use is illegal. However, this is not a general right to erasure and there are some exceptions, for example where we need to use the information to defend a legal claim or to be able to comply with a legal obligation.
- the right to limit processing- you have the right to “block” or prevent further use of your Personal Data when we are assessing a request for rectification or as an alternative to erasure. Where processing is restricted, we may still retain your Personal Data, but we cannot use it further.
- the right to data portability- you have the right to obtain and reuse certain Personal Data for your own purposes across different companies (which are separate data controllers). This only applies to Personal Data that you have provided to us, which we process with your consent and for the purposes of contract performance, which is processed by automated means. In this case, we will provide you with a copy of your data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format or (where technically possible) we may transmit your data directly to another Data Controller.
- the right to object- you have the right to object to certain types of processing, for reasons related to your particular situation, at any time, to the extent that this processing takes place for the purposes of legitimate interests pursued by PRIVAMAP. We will be allowed to continue processing Personal Data if we can demonstrate that the processing is justified by compelling legitimate reasons which override your interests, rights and freedoms or if we need it for the establishment, the exercise or defense of legal actions. If you object to the processing of your Personal Data for direct marketing purposes, we will no longer process your Personal Data for such purposes.
- the right to withdraw your consent- where we process your Personal Data based on your consent, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. However, such withdrawal does not affect the lawfulness of the processing which took place before such withdrawal.
- the right to provide us with instructions on the use of your Personal Data after your death– In France, you have the right to provide us with instructions on the management (for example, retention, erasure and disclosure) of your data after your death. You can change or revoke your instructions at any time.

The Commission Informatique et Libertés (“CNIL”) is the lead data protection authority for PRIVAMAP.

Any request will be examined within the time limits provided for by applicable law. Please note, however, that certain Personal Data may be exempt from such requests in certain circumstances, including if PRIVAMAP needs to continue to process your Personal Data for its legitimate interests or to comply with a legal obligation.

Exercising your right of access (or any other right) will not generate any costs. Sometimes, we will not be able to grant your request if it is manifestly unfounded or excessive.

We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access that information (or exercise your other rights). This is an appropriate security measure to ensure that Personal Data is not disclosed to any person who does not have the right to receive it.

11. HOW IS THE DATA SECURED?

PRIVAMAP ensures that Personal Data is processed securely and confidentially, including when certain operations are carried out by subcontractors. To this end, appropriate technical and organizational measures to avoid the loss, misuse, alteration and deletion of Personal Data concerning you are put in place. These measures are adapted according to the level of sensitivity of the data processed and according to the level of risk presented by the processing or its implementation. We have put in place procedures to deal with any suspected data security breach and will notify you and any applicable supervisory authority of a suspected breach where we are legally required to do so.

Unfortunately, the security of data transmissions over the Internet or data storage systems cannot be guaranteed to be 100% secure.
